

“WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A KING JAMES BIBLE USER AND A KING JAMES BIBLE BELIEVER?”

1. The King James Bible user hates the idea he must be subject to a perfect book.
2. The King James Bible user believes that the King James Bible, although one of the best translations ... it is just that ... there are other translations to be considered as well.
3. The King James Bible user believes the King James Bible can be improved.
4. The King James Bible user is a Textus Receptus man ... that is, that the TR is his final authority.
5. The King James Bible user does not realize that the English of the King James Bible has superior meaning to the Greek in hundreds and hundreds of places.
6. The King James Bible user will use the manuscripts from Antioch but gets his mind set from Alexandria in Egypt ... that is ... for most of the time, he uses the manuscripts from Antioch but gets his philosophy from Alexandria ... that is ... he views the Antioch manuscripts through the lens of Egyptian ideology.
7. The King James Bible user agrees with the Egyptian corrupted manuscripts that have been produced by the apostate Origen.
8. The King James Bible user believes the corrupted Alexandrian manuscripts are superior to those from Antioch.
9. The King James Bible user will not accept that there is any translation that is perfect and without error.
10. The King James Bible user generally feels that the King James Bible is the best translation, and it can be improved, but his gear box drops out on the road at Acts 4:12 ... stating it is a mistranslation.
11. The King James Bible user's double mindedness is generally not the result of a bad or dishonest heart, as much as it is the result of bad education ... in that he has simply believed the lies that he has been told ... that have been passed down by his pastor and teachers.

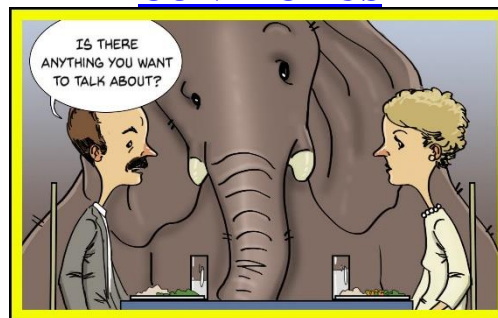

12. The King James Bible user has simply been unconsciously duped into believing Alexandrian philosophy, education and ideology.
